

Sashka Milanova

DANUBE COMMISSION – INTERSECTION OF GEOPOLITICAL INTERESTS AFTER WORLD WAR II

(Summary)

The article analyzes the issue of creating an international commission to control the Danube River after World War II. The issue was raised and discussed in the political talks between the victors on the level of statesmen and diplomats together with the preparation of the peace treaties. Along with this, the diplomats discussed the general principles and waterways in Europe and the revitalization of the movement of river transport for the economic recovery of the European countries.