THE TRADE CAPITAL AND THE REDEMPTION OF TAXES IN THE OTTOMAN EMPIRE DURING THE THIRD QUARTER OF THE XIX CENTURY

(Summary)

Similar problems, however from the point of view of another trade family from the Revival, are reviewed by Evgenia Davidova in the article, entitled "Trades Capital and Tax Redemption in the Ottoman Empire in the Third Quarter of XIX Century". Here is used the rich archive of Hristo Tapchileshtov, in order to present him not only as a tax redelector for the taxes beglik, yushur and rusumat, but also as a major states supplier. E. Davidova is searching for new aspects of the redemption practice in the second half of the XIX century compared to the previous period.
